In a recent number of the Economic Journal appears an article by Mr. Francis B. FORDES on "Indian Trade with the Far East and the New Rupee." In making the Value : recent change in the currency it was thought Valse. - that by establishing stability of exchange between India and those countries with which the greater portion of her trade is carried on there would on the whole be a substantial gain to India, although the trade with silver countries would of course suffer. Mr. Formes controverts this view and by careful analysis of the figures attached to the Herschell Committee's report shows it is mainly in connection with her trade with the Far East that India has secured the favourable bulance of foreign trade which has enabled her to liquidate her sterling obligations. Taking an average of the two years 1890-91 and 1891-92 it appears that the trade with gold countries, which comprised pearly three-fourths of the aggregate. resulted in a favourable balance of only 133.7 million rupees, while that with the Far East, though less than one-sixth of the aggregate, left a surplus to India of 158.4 millions. If the comparison be spread over a longer period, going back to 1870-71, we the memployed. Two were sentenced to five find that the aggregate trade with the Far East was never more than 201 per cent., flued. and was sometimes under lo per cent. averaging 161 per cent of the whole trade of India, while its proportion of the aggregate surplus was once as high as 61.9 per cent. and was never lower than 36.3 por cent, the average being 49.4 per cent; If the figures for the Straits Settlements be separated from those for Hongkong, China, and Japan, it will be found that exports to the latter averaged 140 millions against 201 millions of imports. The exports consisted mainly of quium and raw and manufactured is seriously prejudiced by the recent ourrency change and already shows a large falling off. CHINESE BOYS' TABLE DECORA.

In support of a suggestion that at the Sasuahai Flower Show there should by a table competition to Chinese boys besides that for European ladies the N. O. Daily News says:-The idea has been suggested by the extraordinariy elaborate and very tasteful decorations, lately seen in a remote outport, the one by a Ningpo boy, the other by a Pakingesa. The Ningpo boy elied almost entirely on flit devices on the table cloth; one s resobanh in miniature, formed of bits of flat grass for stalks, with leaves and rosebuds, all first detached, then most ingeniously, laid together. The napkin by this place was twisted into a snake with red seeds for eyes, a black papil to each, whilst the aspkin opposite represented a wolf. Then came a laudscape formed of very small bits of laf, all green, and somewhat poeticia character. An Angle Chinese Dictionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the ne words which the Chinese have of later sare been compelled to coin to express, the numerous ob jects in machinery photography, telegraphy, and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are bere given in extenso. Each and every word fully illustrated and explained, forming ere-via for students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given the accounts being parefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained.
